Against the admission of Kansas as a State under

following emphatic language:

And on the same subject, Mr. Calhoun, the brightest constitutional luminary of all, used the following brief but emphatic words:

are and Secretary Stanton say on this subject.—

Gov Walker, in his letter to Gen. Casa, of the 15th Dec., 1857, says:

"My opinion is, and ever was, that the proceeding of the people of Michigan, in taking the first steps to form a State Constitution without waiting for the assent of Con-gress, was revolutionary."

If these quotations fail to convince, then; so far as my Democratic auditors extend, they would not be convinced though one rose from the dead. But to obviate these high authorities and these unanswerable arguments, it is now stated that the Kansas Nebraska act is itself an enabling act, dispensing with all others. Unfortunately for those who affirm this, it proves too much for them. That act, it is true, "leaves the people perfectly free to form their domestic institutions in their own way, subject only to the Constitution." Prior to it the people had been restrained in this "perfect freedom" by the provisions of the Missouri compromise line, which prohibited slavery north of 36° 30' north latitude; and this provision was intended merely to apply to the condition and privileges of the people when sub-sequent to the repeal of this line, they should come legally to form their domestic institutions in their own way, and was not intended to con fer upon them any new powers or privileges, contrary to the consent of Congres, whereby they might at pleasure cast off their territorial allegi ance. If such be not the truc interpretation of this clause-if it conferred upon the people of the Territory the inherent right at any time they pleased to form a Constitution and claim admission absolutely under it, how can we resist the upplication of those who formed the justly and universally repudiated Topeka Constitution for admission under it into the Union of these States. Their Constitution is first in point of time, and it will be observed that is not the Legislature of the Territory, but the "people of the Territory," that are left "perfectly free to form their own domes tic institutions in their own way;" and hence, upon this hypothesis and language of the law, you need not apply for an enabling act even from the Territorial Legislature, because that language does not confer the power upon the Legislature, but confers it "on the people;" and the high pre rogative of making a Constitution is not a legislative function. Besides, if the Kansas Nebras-ka act enabled the Legislature of Kansas to call a constitutional convention, why did President the Pierce recommend, and why did the Democratic Senate under his Administration, with singular unanimity, pass an act authorizing Kansas to call a convention. Without pursuing this argu ment further, I conclude, from the high authorities cited and from the reasons already adduced -1st. That the Legislature of Kansas was not competent to commit an act of political snicide, and to subvert and overturn the very power of which they were but constituted the keepers, guardians, and prescrivers, by the Congress of the United States; and 2d, that the Kansas territorial law was in no sense an act which enabled its Leg ceedings bind not the government of the United States, or render it in any sense imperative upon such government to admit such Territory into the Union as a State, merely because the Territorial Legislature have gone regularly through the formalities it may have instituted. The power of those important rights upon which we are acting the United States, and the duty of the United now; and in consideration of his solemn pledge States, stand untouched and unaffected by these subordinate territorial formalities, except so far to them, yielding it up indifferently to be formed as they may address themselves to the Congress by those who might be selected to do it, yet re of the United States as matter of petition, deserving its favorable consideration from their in-herent merit, and not from their inherent legali the benefits of their non-action, without com

2. If the Lecompton Constitution be legal in cured? Shall we, in any sense, fall to comply form, are there not facts connected with it that render it invalid in fact? Mr. Chairman, this field of my argument has been perfectly exhausted.—

Let me add but a few words to what has been so much better said by so many others. And let me did states it, and it is not denied. Whether he premise that the Congress of the United States is lad authority or not, the confiding people be-under no stress, or legal or political necessity, to lieved he had, and it would be inconsistent with admit new States into this Confederacy. Neither Kansas, nor any other Territory, can demand as a right admission into this Union; although she may have formed a Republican Constitution, and although every man, woman and child within her borders desired it, yet the right and the power to admit or not to admit, according to its own will and pleasure, rests alone in the Congress of the United States.

This high power and unlimited discretion is slavery. An act like that needs no comment. I

In the exercise of this high prerogative, perhaps versaries are those who would identify it with the most morally grand of any which our current violations of personal propriety and honor, and history exhibits, the Congress has the right and especially with an outrage upon the unquestioned it is its duty, to look with the utmost scrutiny and caution upon every fact, circumstance, and Constitution, to say whether it shall exist with condition which bears upon the prudence, fitness, them or not. I do not hesitate to declare that, if new States are to be precipitated into this Confederacy contrary to the consent the events I have thus detailed, that we are in of a material portion of the old ones, and above formed by Governor Stanton that they were al all, with constitutions contrary to the asserted most on the point of civil war, which was only pre-will of a material portion of the citizens of such vented by his convening the legislature. new State, then are the sappers and miners at work beneath the foundations of the Republic, storing peace, a law was passed taking the sense

15th Dec., 1857, says:

"In nineteen of these counties there was ne census, and therefore there could be no such apportionment there of delegates, based npon such census; and in fifteen of these counties there was no registry of voters.—These fitneric counties, including many of the oldest organized counties of the Territory, were entirety disfranchised, and did not give, and (by no fanit of their own) could not give, a solitary vote for delegates to the convention."

"In fifteen counties out of thirty-four there was no registry, and not a solitary vote was given or could be given for delegates to the convention in any of these counties."

Governor Stanton in the such as provided the same of the second to the same of the same

Governor Stanton, in corroboration of this state ment, in his address to the people of the United States, says:

"The registration required by law had been imperfect in all the counties, and had been wholly omitted in one-half of them; nor could the people of these dis-franchised counties vote in any adjacent county, as has been falsely suggested."

I could multiply proofs on this subject, but i is unnessary. These are sufficient, except to those determined not to believe. It is true that many of the frec State party refused to vote for delegates to form the Constitution. They pro fessed to believe, and perhaps did believe, they would de defrauded out of their votes by their opponents, who had complete control of all the machinery by which the elections were to be conducted; and they were unwilling, as before stated, by voting at an election authorized by what they denominated the Bogus Legislature, to recognize the validity of its acts. I am not their ndvocate or defender. I think in all this they did wrong; and the other side were wrong in not taking the census and registration as far as practice ble, to give to all the right and un questionable American privilege of being represented in the body which was to ordain their highest law. The free State party in some of the counties made an attempt to elect delegates to the convention, notwithstanding the failure to take the census and registration. Their delegates were rejected. I will not dwell on these things. One fact of importance, during the progress of this election, occurred. It was the unequivocal, clear, distinct, and absolute promise of the Governor, in his own name, and in the name of the President of the United States; it was the promise of his Secretary, Mr. Stanton; it was the promise of Mr. Calhoun and many of his associates, that the Constitution, when formed by pledged his honor, by the approval, as he told the people, of the President and his cabinet, that the Constitution should be submitted. Without stop ping to refer to his inaugural, in which he i most emphatic on this point, I read from a speech of his delivered at Topeka, on the 8th of June. 1857, and published in the Topeka Statesman of the 9th:

"At the next election, in October, when you elect the Territorial Legislature, you can repeal these laws; and you can also, by a majority of your own votes, adopt or reject the Constitution presented for your consideration may fall. Can you not receably dealed this available. It follows, then, that the Lecompton Constitution is not an imperative legality. Mr. Chairman, let it not be inferred from anything I have said that I hold it illegal or rebellious for a Territorial Legislature to institute preliminary proceedings in order to bring about the transition from a territorial to a State condition. All I wish to establish is that their proceedings bind not the government of the United that I have not the power of Good? 'We held you to your prometed in the condition of the government of the United that I have not the power of Good? 'We held you to your prometed in the condition of Good? fraudulent votes polled in Kansas I have but plains, it will sweep through the northwestern little doubt, and I have as little doubt that in any prairies and the mountains of New England, until election, from the first authorizing of the convention down to the final ratification, there have been votes enough withheld to have changed the result. My colleague says that if the fraudulent votes on the ratification of the Constitution were thrown out there would be only 2,700 votes left. Well, that may be so; but then those who did will; extend to them, in fact, what you profess to not go to the polls authorized those who did to vote for them, and this left a clear majority of their domestic institutions in their own way, and 2700 received for the constitutions in their own way, and 2,700 votes in favor of the Constitution. Now I my life for it, peace will prevail ask my friend if he thinks that the votes east on our beloved country to the other. the 4th of January were all legal? I say that out of the 10,200 votes cast on that day against the Lecompton Constitution 9,600 were polled in those registered counties where the pro-slaver party had cast 6,000 votes in favor of the Const

Mr. Underwood. In regard to the legality of that election, my friend will bear me witness that I have, at least, endeavored to establish the prop osition that these elections were not of such a character as to demand of the people to come to the polls, and hence, that his position does not apply, that those who stay away from the election authorize those who go to vote for them. My friend asks me in regard to the 9,600 cast in the counties which had already given 6,000 majority in favor of the Constitution; and I ask him if he will venture to say, on his integrity as a gentle man, and a statesman well informed on this subject, that he believes that the Lecompton Constitution is the will and voice of the majority of the people of Kansas? I speak merely of the question of numbers, not of the question of legality, because I have disposed of that. Mr. Peyton. I shall answer your question fairly and properly.

Mr. Underwood. I know you will.

Mr. Peyton. The remark which I made in regard to the 9,600 votes was for the purpose of calling my colleague's attention to this fact, tha out of the 10,250 votes polled on the 4th of Jac uary, 9,600 votes were polled in registered coun ties where 6,000 votes had been polled in favor of the Lecompton Constitution.

Mr. Underwood. I only asked you your opinion, whether you believe the Lecompton Constitution was the will and voice of the majority of the people of Kansas, and whether the votes in its favor were fraudulent or not?

Mr. Peyton. That is my opinion. I frankly tell you now that I do not know who has the majority. The list received is sufficient to Batisfy me that the contest is a close one, and I have no idea that the anti Lecomptonites have such an overwhelming majority as they claim.

Mr. Underwood. While my friend may thus remain in doubt, the authentic documents prodouced before the Congress of the United States and which have been heretofore adverted to by many a speaker, satisfy my mind and remove al doubt as to what the will of the people of Kan sas is in respect to that Constitution; and that is that they are pre eminently against the Lecomp ton Constitution.

Thus stand the facts; and the naked question is, shall we admit Kansas into the Union at the hands night and about 8 years oid. He works and rives instance and request of 2,937 of her people, or But we are told that the vote on the 4th of Jan uary came too late. Too late for what? late to tell us what the people of Kansaa willed?

But we are told that it was irregular and revolutionary for them to have expressed their will in any other form, or at any other time, than in the form and manner directed in the Lecompton Con stitution itself. That is remarkable, for it gives to the Lecompton Constitution validity before it Franklin at the Circuit Court Clerk's office, who is the assumes to possess it-makes it the law before it is accepted by Congress-and assumes for the people of a Territory, in their colonial or dependeut condition, the power whenever they see proper to call a convention, to make absolute laws, supplanting, by their own mere force, the pre-existing authority exercised by the Territorial Legislature established by Congress, and without the consent of Congress. But, again, is not this still more remarkable, as coming from posed of. those same Lecomptonites who contend that ever after their Constitution has successfully passed through all the forms of law, been ratified by the people, and approved by Congress, that im

The season has commenced and will end the 1st of mediately thereafter the people may disregard all its provisions in regard to its alteration or amend ment, and change, alter, or abolish it at pleasure; and yet, before the constitution is established. while it is yet in fieri, or the progress of establishment, that same people can do no act to press it. Mr. Chairman, both these propositions can not be true; and common sense has but little diff ficulty in determining which is true. I have already shown that there is no such legality in the proceedings which led to the formation of the Lecompton Constitution as estops the Congress. Indeed, sir, Congress, in the admission of new States, has thus far been limited by few rules of legality, technicality, or form. It has acted up on the various eases according to the facts which attended them, ever earrying out the will of the people of the new State, however expressed, or however ascertained. One thing the Congress has never doue, that is to admit a State into the Union under a Constitution contrary to the well known wishes of her people. This, if ever done, will first be done in Kansas. Her people have expressed, in every form they can cammand, their determined opposition to the Lecompton Consti tution. A majority of nearly ten thousand of her people tell you not to accept it as the fundamental organic law of the State; her Legislature, by a unanimous vote, beseeches you not to do so; and even the officers cleeted under the Lecomp ton Constitution itself protest against your doing

"We, the officers elected under said Constitution, do most respectfully and earnestly pray your honorable bodies not to admit Kansas into the Union under said Constitution, and thus force upon an unwilling people an organic law against their express will, and in violate of every principle of popular government." Signed by Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Secretary of State, State Treasurer, and Anditer.

Against these solemen and earnest appeals Mr. Chairman, if we could for a moment relieve ourselves of all party bias and excitement, we should find the facts pertaining to the Kansas question to be few and simple. A portion of its people are in favor of a Constitution with slaverespectively. The friends of the Lecompton Constitution with slavelieve ourselves of all party bias and excitement,

STRENGTHENING CORDIAL AND BLOOD PURIFIER.

AND BLOOD PURIFIER.

The greatest remedy in the world. This cordial is distilled from a Berry known only to myself, and chemically combined with some of the most valuable medicinal roots, herbs and barks known to the mind of man, viz: blood root, black root, wild cherry bark, yellow dock, dandellons, sarsaparilla, elder flowers, with others, producing the most infallible remedy for the restoration of health ever known.

IT IS NATURE'S OWN REMEDY,
Curing diseases by natural laws. When taken, its heating influences is left coursing through every vein of the blood. It neutralizes any billious matter in the stomach, and strengthens the whole organization.

McLean's Strengthening Cordial will effectually cure liver complaints, Dyspepsia, Jaundice, Cheo ile or Nervous Debilty, Diseases of the Kidneys, and all Diseases arising from a Disordered Liver or stomach.

Dyspepsia. Heartburn, Inward Piles, Acidity or Sick-

a Disordered Liver or Stomach.

JOHN J. JULIAN, President.

Franklin county, March 31, 1853—td.

FRIDAY,APRIL 16, 1858.

FOR CLERK OF THE COURT OF APPEALS, GEORGE R. McKEE, OF PULASKI COUNTY.

Do Not Forget!

That the different Councils of Franklin County are expected to meet at such times Court House in Frankfort on the 3d Monday in April (County Court day.) to select candidates of the American Party for the following language: the following offices: County Judge, County Court Clerk, Sheriff, County Attorney Assessor, Coroner, Surveyor and Jailor.

TWe understand that the young ladies of Frankfort, intend presenting the Sayre Guards with a flag on to-morrow evening at 3 o'clock .-The flag will be presented from the steps of the State House.

We have thought that it might be at once them up in brief review, and let the country see them all together, and estimate their value that the admission of Kansas, with the Lecomp ton Constitution, is a great Southern measure. and as often listen to the stale and false charge that those who oppose it are leagued with Abo litionists, if. indeed, they are not Abolitionists themselves. Southern Democratie papers de clare that it is a sectional question, and denounce al Legislature had no power to call a Convention Richmond South, whose Democracy and attachment to the interests of the South eannot be disputed, says that the admission of Kausas under the shell to the South and the oyster to the lowing grounds for opposition: North." In its issue of March 24th the South

"Mark you, this principle which the South is so anxious to have affirmed is not that new slave States shall be admitted into the Union; it amounts simply to the recognition of the poor fact that the North may generously condescend that a State with a slave Constitution, but inevitably an Abolition State, with the power of its Government placed in the hands of a party to abolitiouize it on the instant, may, under such peculiar circum stances, be admitted into the Union." Is this "principle worth anything to the South? * The practical con-equence of the rejection of Kansas may not be so disastrous after all; it may even be an acceptable event to the South.'

The North Carolina Observer, (Democratic,) March 29th, says:

The Southern members had, however, so fully committed themselves to the measure, under the deceitful pretence that it was a Southern meas nre, that we suppose they could not well turn about the instant that they discovered the crown ing fraud. The South is most egregiously cheated in the whole affair. They get the shadow, whilst the North gets the substauce.

The Washington Union, the recognized organ of the Administration, from which the Kentucky Democratic papers take their cue in denouncing Southern Americans, has time aud again de question to be purely a party not at all sectional; since in no event could any President himself recommends the admission of Territory a free State. In his special message threatened to dissolve the Union then unless it on Kansas, he says:

"It has been solemnly adjudged by the highest judicial tribunal that slavery exists in Kansas by virtue of the Constitution of the United States. Kansas is therefore at this moment as much a slave State as Georgia or South Carolina. Slavery can therefore never be prohibited in Kansas except through the means of a constitu ional provision; and in no other manner can this be obtained so promptly, if the majority of the peo ple desire it, [in his first message he admits that the majority do desire it,] as by admitting her into the Union under her present Constitution.

Again, Mr. Buchanan says: "If the majority of them desire to abolish do mestic slavery within the State there is no other possible mode by which it can be effected so speedily as by its prompt admission." This is the message which was endorsed by the Southern Democraey, and it is not denied that an overwhelming majority of the people of Kansas are opposed to slavery. The Southern men admit it by their unwillingness to submit the doetrine of Congressional interference and sub of Kansas and State officers are free State men, and that the Congressman elected is a Republican; nor that two Abolitionists will be under the Lecompton Constitution. With these facts and with such excellent Democratic author ity before us, we ask in what is the admission of Kansas, under the Lecompton Constitution, a Southern measure? What will the South gain by it? What will she not lose? Another of the untenable positions assumed by the Lecomptonites is, that an enabling act is not to pass an enabling act for Kansas if the Kansas of the above orders to him, directed to precede necessary to the admission of a State, but whencall a Convention to frame a State Constitution, which Buchanan says is too evident for argu. their arrival at Leavenworth. and that Congress is constitutionally obliged to admit the Territory into the Union under that time. Constitution, provided it be republican in form. We do not propose to enter upon any lengthy discussion of this question, but will content our selves with citing some high Democratic authorities upon the subject. In the case of Michigan Buchanan, said:

"We have pursued this course [that is to dis usurpation on their part."

That gentleman, during the same debate, said: "My opinion was, and still is, that the move ment of the people of Michigan in forming for themselves a State Constitution, without waiting for the assent of Congress, was revolutionary." Here is his reason for thinking it revolution-

"Consequently, it is not in the power of the General Assembly of Arkansas to pass any law Journal, to state the circumstances of his pairing Constitution and State Government, nor to do any other act, directly or indirectly, to create thirds of each branch, it would still be equally void."

This was the ground taken by the administration of Gen. Jackson, and has never been denied instructive and amusing to take up the different until the case of Kausas arose, and some excuse arguments used by Lecompton Democrats, one for secession was sought. Any law passed by by one, and show their inconsistencies with each the Territorial Legislature of Kansas-which posother, and their utter worthlessness considered sessed no greater authority than the Territorial by themselves. This we have already done to Legislature of Arkansas-initiating a Convensome extent, but we propose again to bring tion, was null and void. But we have still later authority than the above extracts. It will be remembered that the Territorial Legislature of Here in Kentucky we constantly here it stated California called a Convention to form a State Constitution; the Convention having framed a Constitution submitted It to the people, who adonted it and applied for admission as a free State. A large portion of the ultra Southern men protested against the admission of California under that Constitution, because the Territori-Southern Americans, not for having done wrong, and they threatened secession if Congress atbut for having opposed their section. From the Chateaubrtand. The Infidel Mother.

How is it possible to conceive that a woman can be an utheist? Who shall prop up this reed, if religiou does not? The feeblest thing in us ture, even on the eve of death, or loss of her For the sake of her beauty alone, she should be Gentleness, submission, suavity, tenderness constitute part of the charms which our Creator bestowed on our first mother, and to charms of this kind infidelity is a mortal foe.

Shali woman, who takes delight in concealment, who never discloses more than one-half of her graces and thoughts, who Heaven formed for virtue and the most mysterious sentiments, mod esty and love, shall woman, renouncing the engaging instincts of her sex, presume with rash and feeble hands to attempt to withdraw the thick veil which conceals the Divinity? Whom does she think to please by an effort alike abourd and education and by maternal example, they concern themselves not about their mother. It she surveys the past, she beholds a pathless waste; her irtues have left no traces behind them. For the first time she begins to be sensible how much more consolatory it would have been to have s religion. Unavailing regret! When the Atheist at the end of his oareer discovers the illusion of a false philosophy; when annihilation, like an appalling meteor, begins to appear before the horizon of death, he would fain return to God, but it is too late, The mind, by incredulity, rejects sel think to please by an effort alike absurd and sacrilegious? Does she hope, by adding her pretty and frivolous metaphysies to the impresations of a Spinosa and the sophistry of a Boyle to give us a higher opinion of her genius?—Without a doubt she has no thought of marriage, what sensible man would unite himself for life, to an impious partner?

The infidel wife has seldom any idea of her duties; spends her days either in reasoning on virtue without practicing its precepts, or in the enjoyment of the tumultuous pleasures of the world.

But the day of vengeance approaches. Time arrives, leading age by the hand. The spectre with icy hands and silver hair plants himself on the threshold of the female at the sist; she perceives him and shrieks aloud. Who shall hear her volce? Her husband? She has none; long since, very long has he withdrawn from the theatre of dishonor. Her children? Ruined by an impious education and by maternal example, they concern themselves not about their mother.
